1. One division of Chinese Communist troops in Chinese uniforms arrived in Kunsan (126-42, 36-00) on 23 July; it left for the south on 24 July. A soldier of the division stated that it was going to the Kwangju area.
2. Supplies are brought to Kunsan daily by small boats, then forwarded to the combat areas by oxcart. There are rumors in Kunsan that the supplies come from Antung (124-22, 40-08).
3. On 29 July, the 2 Regiment of the North Korean People's Army (NKPA) 1 Division was approximately 2 miles north of Yongdong (127-46, 36-10), collecting food and supplies from the Yongdong area and conscripting local residents for local area guard duties. NKPA supplies were stored in warehouses of southern Yongdong and Yongdong middle school compound.
4. On the morning of 30 July, approximately 20,000 troops were advancing from Yongdong to Hwanggan (127-54, 36-14). Approximately 20 large North Korean tanks (type unknown) were camouflaged in positions on both sides of the road approximately 1 mile south of Yongdong.
5. On 30 July, an undetermined number of AA guns were on a hill approximately 3 kilometers east of Okchon (127-34, 36-19). Okchon is the supply point for troops in the Yongdong and Poun (127-42, 36-28) areas; supplies are sent out daily. Munitions and food are stored in the former farmers' guild warehouses, in the north section of Okchon. The warehouses are guarded by approximately 60 North Korean troops.
